Do It Now - Easier And Cheaper

President Nixon is planning the most "extensive and comprehensive attack" in history on pollution and will present the program to Congress next month, according to the federal government's chief environmental officer.

The plan, says Dr. Russel E. Train, chairman of the council on Environmental Quality, would give the government broad powers to tax industries to clean up their pollution and would ban unrestricted dumping of pollutants in oceans. Such an attack is welcomed, for America must have a program to save its environment.

To substantially reduce air and water pollution, the United States will have to spend at least $85 billion by 1975. That figure may startle the average citizen, but it is barely more than this country spends in one year on its military.

The really startling fact is that we have not begun sooner, when the job could have been easier and cheaper. Hesitation now only will make the task harder and more expensive - and even more dangerous to every American's well-being. - Tifton (Ga.) Daily Tifton Gazette

Belated Recognition

The women's liberation movement has gained momentum in recent years, carrying rights for females far beyond the scope of the ballot which was extended to them in the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution in force for half a century.

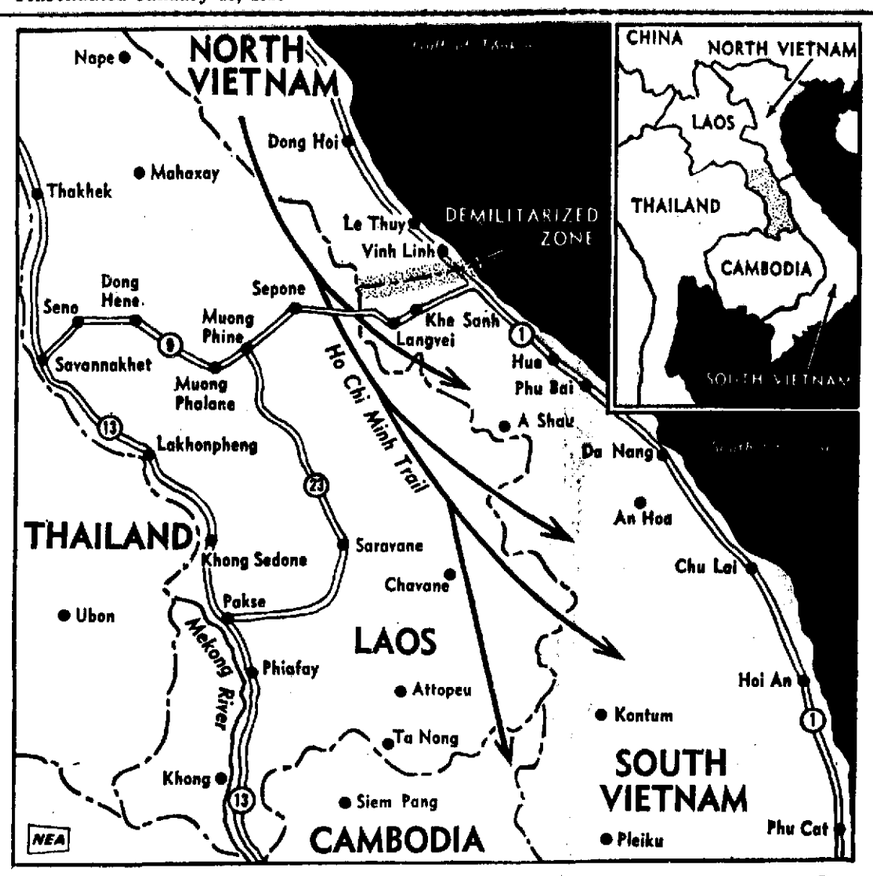

A landmark for women's rights, however, must surely have been attained when the National Press Club - heretofore a zealously guarded sanctuary for male members of the press in Washington, D.C. - voted to extend all privileges and open all of the club's facilities to press corps women.

At some point in future time, this significant event will be regarded for what some now already see as a final breakdown in the slowly won ground to give meaning to the wording of the suffrage amendment: "The right of citizens of the United States . . . shall not be denied or abridged . . . on account of sex."

It is definite, if belated, recognition of the contribution women are making to the lofty aspirations of those who work to give meaning to another constitutional safeguard, freedom of the press. — Wichita Falls (Tex.) Times

What's Happening In Laos

Major objectives of the drive into Laos are the supply lines (the Ho Chi Minh Trail) and depots used by the North Vietnamese to maintain Communist forces in South Vietnam and Cambodia. South Vietnamese forces driving west from Khe Sanh along Route 9, a narrow, unpaved road, toward Sepone have cut trails and uncovered supply dumps, most of which are believed located between Sepone and Saravane. Anti-Communist Laotian troops holding the area along the Mekong River have skirmished with Communist forces around Mong Phalane.

Battle Gls Pay Extra for Flights

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The soldier returning from U.S. leave to lace up his jungle boots again in Vietnam is chipping in three bucks on his airline ticket for better radars and airports back home.

This isn't a head tax on battle-bound troops, Congress says, it's a user charge, a necessary part of the 1970 Airport and Airways Revenue Act.

And the Pentagon says it is obeying the law.

As part of a general morale-boosting program, the Pentagon last fall allowed troops who had served about half of their one-year tour in Vietnam to fly back to the states for a two-week leave.

To get leave, a soldier has to show his commander a roundtrip airline ticket. To get that he pays the ticket cost and the additional $3.

Everyone departing the United States on an aircraft pays the $3 which, with other charges, brings in $500 million a year for improving airports, navigational aides and air-c radar.

Tom Vail, chief counsel of the Senate Finance Committee, says that made all travelers—including GIs—liable for the $3.

All air travelers benefit from these improvements and should contribute to the upkeep and improvement, congressional theory goes.

"I would speculate that the Senate would not want to write an exemption," Vail said. "Then there would be pressure to defend it. No one has an exemption."

Three companies are hauling GIs home from Vietnam for two weeks: Pan American, World Airways and Trans International. The best estimate is six flights home a week, about 1,500 troops.

Even with the $3 charge, the soldier gets a far better financial break than other travelers who choose to go to Saigon for a couple of weeks.

No Discount for Sales Tax Collection

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — With Gov. Dale Bumpers' consent, the legislature killed the administration bill to reduce the merchant's discount for collection and early payment of sales tax revenue Thursday.

The Senate recalled the bill from the House, refused to concur in a House amendment, expunged the vote by which the Senate earlier had approved the bill and then defeated the bill on a vote of 3-29.

Sen. Olen Hendrix of Prescott handled the interment. When Sen. Virgil T. Fletcher of Benton suggested that the same end could be accomplished if Hendrix would just withdraw the bill from further consideration, Hendrix said, "No, we need a roll call so some of us can get off the hook."

The House amendment had added a provision to permit merchants to deduct from the tax collections any tax revenue they had included on what turned out to be bad debts. Bumpers said that killed the bill.

The proposal originally was designed to reduce the discount rate from 2 per cent to 1 per cent. That would have produced $1.1 million in new revenue, but the amendment might wind up causing the state to lose revenue, Bumpers said.

Second Deck for Golden Gate Bridge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Directors of the Golden Gate Bridge have approved installing a second deck on the majestic span, but it won't alter the familiar appearance of the 34-year-old suspension structure.

The second deck is part of a $331 million long-range transit plan approved unanimously Thursday to relieve traffic congestion between San Francisco and Marin County suburbs.

But there are several hurdles to be cleared before the plan becomes reality.

It must be approved by the California Legislature and federal funds would be needed to help local governments, who would have to raise a portion of the cost.

The transit plan is keyed around using a speedy bus system on the second deck, to be installed in an already boxed-in framework beneath the present roadway.

The second deck would cost an estimated $66.5 million, with access and egress through tunnels that boost over-all cost of the busway to $204 million.

All 16 bridge directors at Thursday's meeting favored the plan, which has expansion of existing bus and ferry boat service as its initial steps. Two were absent.

When the Golden Gate Bridge opened in May 1937 it had a daily traffic average of 9,000 vehicles compared with 100,000 a day now.

The plan evolved after studies and public hearings on some 25 proposals. It is designed to meet public transportation requirements between San Francisco and the North Coast counties through 2015.

Body of Civil Rights Leader to Be Returned

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — The body of civil rights leader Whitney M. Young Jr., dead at 49, is to be flown back to the United States this weekend.

Young, executive director of the National Urban League, died Thursday while swimming in the surf near Lagos. He was here for a conference to increase understanding between Africans and Americans.

The White House ordered a U.S. Air Force transport to Nigeria today to bring the body back and named Brig. Gen. Daniel James Jr., the highest ranking black in the Air Force, to command the flight. The schedule for the return was not known yet, but the plane was expected to leave Saturday.

Funeral plans have not been announced.

President Nixon led a host of American leaders in paying tribute to the man who provided perhaps the strongest link between black America and the U.S. business community.

"I have lost a friend," the President said, "black America has lost a gifted and commanding champion of its just cause, and this nation has lost one of the most compassionate and principled leaders it has had ... "

Young collapsed while approaching the shore after swimming in heavy surf off Lighthouse Beach, at Tarqua Bay.

It was thought he suffered a heart attack, but an autopsy was ordered.

One of Young's companions, pulled him out of the water and gave him mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Clark said Young was under the water for no longer than "90 seconds" and that it was unlikely he drowned.

The Urban League named Harold R. Sims, Young's deputy, to be acting executive director until the organization's board of directors names a permanent director.

Young served on seven presidential commissions and received the Medal of Freedom.

U.S., Canada Discuss Oil Pipeline

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada and the United States are to have formal talks soon on a proposalby U.S. oilmen to move oil across Alaska by pipeline from the North Slope and thence by tanker to Bellingham, Wash.

The Canadians will back a counterproposal: to move the North Slope oil through a pipeline down the Mackenzie River Valley in Canada's Northwest Territories.

The northern development minister, Jean Chretien, says it would be possible to establish such a pipeline corridor without hurting the interests of Indians or Eskimos.

It is taken for granted here that the major part of the estimated $1.5 billion required for the Mackenzie pipeline would come from the United States.

This raises the touchy problem of American ownership and control in this country. There also is the environmental issue. The Canadian government has expressed strong views about oil spills at sea but not upon the land or into rivers.

Foreign Secretary Mitchell Sharp has said sea shipments pose "great risks and dangers" to the coast of British Columbia.

He has been supported by an all-party group of 18 members of Parliament who have told the U.S. Interior Department that procession of tankers from Valdez, Alaska, to Washington State would sooner or later result in an oil spill disaster.

A source close to the Cabinet said this week that at the moment Ottawa's basic policy is to try to kill off the tanker route so that the United States will have to consider the Mackenzie Valley route.

Up to now, the opposition Conservatives have not taken a clearly defined position on the pipeline issue, partly on the ground that government policy is not clear.

The minority New Democratic party has indicated it will fight a U.S.-controlled pipeline.

Works Minister Arthur Laing said several federal departments are studying thoroughly the possible environmental threat of pipelines running through Canada.

For this and other reasons a decision does not appear imminent. Any pipeline application by an American company or consortium of companies would mean hearings by the National Energy Board.

Premier in Chicago

Investigation Continues in PX Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — An ex-general has been ordered to a third day of interrogation by senators unwilling to take a faulty memory for an answer and angered by charges a powerful congressman tried to kill their probe 16 months ago.

The decision to seek more answers Monday from former Brig Gen. Earl F. Cole was made by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff. Ribicoff said Friday the late Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, intervened actively but futilely to suppress official interest in Cole's activities.

The charge came midway in a day of testimony in which the former general continued to proclaim his innocence of some allegations of wrongdoing in dealings with PXs and service clubs in Vietnam. Cole said of other allegations that a bad memory prevented him from remembering any details.

Cole did remember how the name of William J. Crum, once a high-living slot machine and whisky salesman in Vietnam, was engraved with those of generals on a silver cigarette box presented to Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Army chief of staff.

Westmoreland returned the box to Cole last April and demanded a hand-signed receipt for it.

Cole said the cigarette box was donated by officers in the pacification program in Vietnam when Westmoreland left his position as U.S. military commander. He said Crum intercepted Cole's Vietnamese secretary on her way to the engravers and placed his own name on the bottom of the list.

About an hour after Cole's testimony began, he brought up the name of Rep. Rivers. Cole said the congressman, who died last Dec. 28, tried in September 1969 to set up a telephone conversation with Cole at his duty station in Heidelberg, Germany.

Cole said he had been having a hard time getting his viewpoint across in the early days of the Senate investigation and feared being "sold down the river."

But Ribicoff said Rivers' involvement went much farther than Cole said.

Saying Rivers had vouched for Cole as an "old friend," Ribicoff pointed at Cole and declared: "Mendel Rivers did intervene in your behalf to try and stop this investigation and Mendel Rivers did not succeed."

Ribicoff said Rivers called him twice to indicate it would be better if the Cole case were dropped. The senator's aides said a Rivers assistant also made calls and at least one personal visit.

For the rest of the day, senators pressed Cole for answers to allegations he intervened at least 43 times in Vietnam to aid business interests dealing with PXs and military clubs.

Man Attacked, Killed in Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Officials said Kenneth Pederson, 26, of Cabot died at the University of Arkansas Medical Center Thursday night of injuries he suffered when struck on the head with a club Wednesday night.

Pederson, a radiologist at the center, and Doyle R. Burleson, medical student, were struck from behind by a young Negro man as they left Barton Coliseum following the Jonesboro-Hot Springs basketball game.

Little Rock police said today that no arrest had been made in the case. Police said they were interviewing witnesses to the assault today.

Burleson was not seriously injured, but authorities said Pederson suffered "extensive brain damage."

Officer Plans Suit, Charges Coverup

By TED SIMONS
Associated Press Writer

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — A four-times wounded Army lieutenant colonel says he plans to file charges today against two fellow officers whom he accuses of failing to investigate and report the alleged torture and murder of Vietnamese civilians.

Lt. Col. Anthony B. Herbert said Thursday he would bring federal court charges against Maj. Gen. John Barnes and Col. J. Ross Franklin, former commander and deputy commander of the 173rd Airborne Brigade.

Herbert said he was afraid the Army would allow time under the statute of limitations to expire without acting on his accusations.

In Washington, the Army issued a statement saying, "The allegations of Herbert are still the subject of an active investigation by the U.S. Army Criminal Investigations Detachment."

"Of the total of 19 criminal allegations made by Lt. Col. Herbert," a Pentagon spokesman said, "two had been the subject of previously completed CID investigations, five more have been investigated and determined to be unfounded, while the balance are still being actively investigated."

Barnes is presently assigned to the Pentagon and Franklin is assigned to Vietnam. They made no immediate comment on Herbert's accusations.

Herbert said in an interview he witnessed the killing of a Vietnamese woman whose throat was cut by a military intelligence unit made up of Vietnamese but headed by an American lieutenant.

He said that shortly after turning a group of prisoners over to the unit, he was told four of them had been killed. He witnessed the throat cutting when he went to order the killing stopped, he said.

He demanded the prisoners be returned to his charge, Herbert said, but later learned from a sergeant he placed in charge of their safe removal that the intelligence unit took the prisoners by force and killed them all.

Another time, Herbert said, he "tore the wires" off a young Vietnamese woman who was being tortured with electrical shocks from the generator of a field telephone.

Franklin told him that "if you ever interfere again, you'll not be permitted to go" where prisoners were being interrogated, Herbert said.

The officer said he knew of a noncom who served with intelligence, identified only as a Sgt. Stemme, who was disciplined and reduced in rank because of his efforts to prevent the torture of prisoners and attempts to have atrocities investigated.

Herbert, a tall, crew-cut combat veteran of 22 years Army service, said in the interview that while commander of the brigade's 2nd Battalion for 58 days during 1969 he reported incidents of murder and torture of civilians to Franklin and, through him, to Barnes.

"My charges are of misprision of a felony, because of their improper investigation and failure to follow through, and dereliction of duty and violations of directives and regulations, in that they were required to make these reports known to higher headquarters and they failed to do so," he said.

SS Increase of 5 Billion to President

WASHINGTON (AP) — With unanimous Senate approval under their belt, congressional leaders are pushing to get a $5-billion Social Security increase onto President Nixon's desk by Tuesday.

That schedule would boost Social Security checks of 26 million Americans by 10 to 56 per cent, effective last Jan. 1. The increases would show up in checks mailed the first of June.

By an 82-0 vote, the Senate Friday adopted an amendment raising benefits and Social Security taxes on employes and employers. The Social Security provisions were tacked onto an unrelated House-passed bill raising the national-debt limit.

Sponsors said they will try to arrange a Senate-House conference on the measure for Monday afternoon, work out a quick compromise and then get the final version through both houses the next day.

The House is considered certain to accept the 10-per-cent increase voted by the Senate. But, based on past experience, it is expected to reject the $100 minimum monthly payment for an individual which would mean a much bigger boost for those at the bottom of the scale. The present minimum is $64.

It is understood the House also is ready to accept the Senate's method of paying for the higher benefits.

This would raise the taxable wage base from $7,800 to $9,000, starting in 1972, and increase the tax rate gradually starting in 1976.

It would provide for an eventual rate of 6.5 per cent each for worker and employer in 1987 and thereafter instead of 5.9 per cent as under present law.

Under present law, payments for individuals retiring this year at age 65 range from $64 to $193.70, and from $96 to $290.60 for couples. The Senate bill would raise this to $100 to $213.10 for individuals and $150 to $319.70 for couples.

The Senate bill contains two other liberalizations of Social Security.

One would boost by 5 per cent special payments to a limited group of 600,000 persons 72 and over who do not qualify for regular Social Security benefits.

The other would allow persons retired under Social Security to earn up to $2,400 a year without loss of any benefits. The ceiling now is $1,680.

The bill to which the Social Security provisions are attached would raise the national debt limit to $430 billion, an all-time record and $35 billion above the present ceiling.

The administration has said it needs this increase by Tuesday to avoid embarrassment to the Treasury in meeting government obligations.

Beatle Paul McCartney Wins Battle

LONDON (AP) — Breakaway Beatle Paul McCartney today won his court battle to have the quartet's tangled business affairs put in the hands of a caretaker accountant.

A High Court judge ordered the appointment of a receiver because the Beatles' financial affairs were "confused, uncertain and inconclusive."

Judge Sir Blanshard Stamp named James Douglas Spooner as the group's receiver and manager and said the appointment was needed "not merely to protect assets but to ensure fair management of Beatles' business."

Spooner was authorized to appoint submanagers, a ruling which could open the way for American Allen Klein to continue handling the three other Beatles—John Lennon, George Harrison and Ringo Starr.

Nature Girl

Ranger the raccoon watches Ruth Alloway mount her motorbike in their woodland retreat.

The more Ruth Alloway's life is taken up with animals and the out-of-doors, the better. But she still includes people among her main interests!

Mrs. Alloway, from Mechanicsburg, Ohio, is a person with an unusually wide range of interests and occupations. But it all falls into place in light of her great love for animals.

First of all, she's a bona fide zoo keeper, in charge of the hospital facility at the Columbus, Ohio, Zoo, and has made friends with many of the zoo's animals. To pursue her interest in animals further, she's been saving up for a trip to Africa. "I want to observe animals in their natural habitats and do research on the animals, especially the elephant," she said. She plans to ride her motorbicycle to the Texas coast and there board a freighter for the trip to Africa.

Besides zoo keeping, Mrs. Alloway spends some time doing oil paintings of the animals. In a completely different field, she has been working for about five years as assistant to a professor in periodontics at the Ohio State University School of Dentistry, and instructs his postgraduate students in dental X-ray. She also studied nursing and medical illustration, but has no medical or college degrees.

To help finance the African venture, she has been working at night as waitress in a nearby country club. And she even sublet her apartment and lived in a pup tent in the woods behind the country club golf course. Here her constant companion was a wild raccoon whom she named "Ranger," and of whom she said, "I don't make him live in my world, but I live in his world." Naturally.

Experiment With Garbage Gobbler

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP) — A garbage gobbler is chomping up several hundred pounds of refuse daily in the opening phase of an experiment to see whether trash can be used efficiently in the generation of electrical power.

By midyear, its makers plan to have the gobbler gulping down 40 tons of garbage per day at one end and cranking electricity out the other.

The model consists of a shredder to grind up the garbage and a combustion chamber to burn it, producing hot gases to drive a jet engine which will power a generator.

The developers, Richard D. Smith and William C. Bell, both former aerospace engineers, said the experiment is aimed at eliminating garbage dumps as well as producing usable power at an economic cost.

If the prototype gobbler is successful, they plan to produce a unit with a 400-ton-a-day capacity.

Bert Hildebrand, project manager, said a similar plant in Dusselford, Germany, used the hot gases to create steam to drive generators, but said this system is less efficient than the Smith-Bell concept.

The 400-ton unit could generate up to 15,000 kilowatts of power, he said. The 40-ton prototype has a 1,000-kilowatt capacity.

Experiments on the prototype, funded by the federal Environmental Protection Agency, have been going on for three years at Combustion Power Co., Inc. The federal government has provided $2.2 million for research.

The company said the most recent cost estimate for a 400-ton model was $4.2 million. The cost of operation, including paying off a 30-year loan to finance construction of the plant, was figured at about $1 per ton of garbage.

They're Cranking Up 'The Love Machine'

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — In this corner, wearing a fuzzy tuxedo and a huge bow tie, David Hemmings.

His opponent, in a white, bare-midriff pants suit, Dyan Cannon.

They're shooting a big fight scene for "The Love Machine," which Jack Haley Jr. is directing at Columbia. This, of course, is the film version of Jacqueline Susann's big, gaudy novel. It's one of only three or four pictures being shot in Hollywood at the moment, as The Great Film Famine goes on.

Hemmings plays Jerry Diavlik, the fashion photographer friend of Robin Stone, who is being played now by John Phillip Law since Brian Kelly was seriously injured in a motorcycle accident. Dyan is Judith, the heroine of the piece.

They are having a brawl in the dining room of a pretty, Spanish-style home. They rehearse a few times with the idea of flinging plates and tables and whatever at each other. The plates, of course, are the breakaway kind, designed to shatter on impact without hurting.

"You can rehearse a lot," Haley says, "but when they get their juices going, you never know what may happen. The first time we tried this, David whacked Dyan so hard she saw stars."

She looks very vulnerable but, then, so does he. Dyan wears a pair of knee pads under her white slacks; otherwise neither one has any extra protection.

"They just take their lumps," Haley says.

They tried it again, rushing around the table and throwing the plates and the fruit and, at the end, Dyan even turned over the table.

"I'm having a ball," Dyan said. "It's fun."

"I am unbruised," Hemmings said. "The only bruises are those to my soul."

In the background, John Phillip Law watched the whole thing. For Law, this major role by far the biggest of his career—is a mixed blessing. Obviously, it's good for him to be involved in what is sure to be a commercial success. But the circumstances under which he got the part are tragic.

Brian Kelly was the original choice. The crew had filmed a week or so when one day he was off, on his own, and his motorcycle crashed. He's still hospitalized and the story is that he is partially paralyzed.

"I don't know Kelly," Law says, "but I can empathize with him. It happened to me once, although not that seriously. I started 'Gypsy Moths' with Burt Lancaster and we shot for two weeks before I broke my wrist and they had to replace me.

Scott Wilson took my part."

He says the company has been wonderful to him and the only real problem is that he had no time to prepare. Until a few days before he came on the set, he had been planning to do a film in Italy, and he had been spending hours in the library boning up on Moroccan history to get ready for that part.

He finds Moroccan history of little value in "The Love Machine."

Law—he uses his middle name, too, because John Law sounds funny—is one of those who loves his job.

"Being an actor," he says, "is like running away with the circus, only better. You're part of an elite ingroup. I was shooting in Bulgaria and I was arrested for taking pictures of a parade. Anybody else would have been in big trouble. But there was a man with our company who was higher up in the party than the local police chief, so I was released. And I even got my camera and film back."

PREGNANT DOLL WITH ZIPPER UNREALISTIC, SAYS SUE

Dear Helen (If I may call you that, which I don't usually — you being my mother:

I'd like to comment on a new doll being advertised—I mean the "pregnant" number which little kids can unzip and out comes a baby. What next! The company selling these dolls (I wonder if they wear wedding rings?) says they will be great for sex education, but—

Now you and I know that not all women have Cesarean births, but do four or five-year-olds? Think of the misconceptions (no pun intended) if little girls get the idea they must have their stomachs cut open? They might be turned against having babies.

Also, the doll is "unisex"; the baby "fatherless." Where's reality? Kids could even grow up thinking if you want a child, you just sprout a zipper, open it up, toss in a few ingredients, let them "cook," then unzip, and presto—like taking a souffle out of the oven. (Personally, I might have nightmares about my zipper breaking or getting caught on skin, and you know how THAT hurts.)

I can just hear a pre-schooler asking, "Mommy, can you order nylon zippers so they won't rust?"

Besides, Mom, you told me that was a buttonhole on my stomach, remember?

I think if they want to make dolls with baby-pouches, they should stick to kangaroos. — YOUR DAUGHTER, SUE

Dear Sue:

(Did I REALLY tell you it was a buttonhole? The things mothers say!)

Anyway, I'm with YOU, Sue! I cotton to the zippered lamb you got for Christmas five years ago: It has a radio in its stomach. — YOUR MOTHER, H.

Dear Helen:

Help! My mother lost her puppy Tuesday and he hasn't come back and she thinks he is dead. She liked and cherished him. She has a bad temper and she gets stoned every night.

How can I cheer her up? — WORRIED, AGE 11

Dear Worried:

I'm afraid a new puppy wouldn't solve your mother's problems, Honey. Let's hope your father is trying. He'll tell you ways to help. —H.

Dear Helen:

I love your "What Is?" columns. Here's mine:

WHAT IS WARMTH?

Warmth is a hug or a kiss. It's the special way of feeling when we just meet a new friend who understands how we feel.

It's when we receive a letter from a that special person far away, or get a phone call and hear his voice.

Warmth is knowing someone is listening to you when you talk. It's the inner glow we have when we buy a gift for someone with no special reason. Or see a friend we haven't seen in a long time.

Warmth is sitting on the bench all alone, late at night, watching the clouds pass over the moon. It's the beauty of dawn with all its bright hues. Or the calmness of sunset.

Warmth is seeing someone happy.

Or helping someone we know needs our help.

Or cheering someone up.

It can be the special feeling we get from a boy or a girl, or a cat or a dog.

But one thing for sure. Warmth comes from love. — LAURA VOSGANIAN

Ex-Official Has Attack

Opening lead—♣ Q

By Oswald & James Jacoby

"Why do finesses work for everyone but me?" moaned South. "Anyone else would have found either the club ace or the heart king where it would have helped him."

South had ruffed the second club and led the nine of diamonds. He was unlucky with that play. West had thought awhile and then gone up with the ace in order to lead another club.

South ruffed and cashed the ace and king of trumps. Then he ruffed a good diamond in order to get to dummy for the heart finesse. If it had worked South would have made his contract. As it was West took his king, pulled South's last trump and set him two tricks with the last club.

South was unlucky to find both the club and heart wrong. There was nothing he could do about the club but the heart king should have presented no problem.

When South finessed the hearts he was taking what we call a practice finesse. He was finessing for the sheer joy of finessing and not for any good reason. He didn't need that finesse.

South was looking at four good diamonds. All he had to do was to lead them out and discard a heart from dummy on each one. West could trump in somewhere along the way but that still wouldn't bother South.

He would get back in again with his last trump and continue the diamond parade. Then in the cool of the evening he would take his ace of hearts and ruff the jack with dummy's last trump.

"Young Hickory"

James Knox Polk U.S. president from 1845 to 1949 was called "Young Hickory" because of some resemblances to Old Hickory, Andrew Jackson, 7th U.S. president.

YOUTH BEAT

Want to Tell It Like You Think It Is?

YOUTHBEAT FPA-STYLE—Back when gin was made in bathtubs and mobster machine guns were carried in violin cases, Franklin Pierce Adams was writing a New York newspaper column called "The Conning Tower"—in which he rarely wrote a line. He let his readers say it all for him, through contributions to the column. In the spirit of today's nostalgia movement, Youthbeat has decided to go back to the 1920s and follow the route of FPA: we'd like to know what you think about things. Send your thoughts (they don't have to be sweet, but we'd like them short) to Youthbeat, in care of this newspaper.

RAG BAG—The "lengthy" fashion war is still going on, with designers pulling hems down and hiking them up again. Brenda Ledbetter writes about the midi, maxi, hot pants rage: "I thing the designers are trying to bring back the past. I have seen many pictures of the clothes of the 1920s, '30s, '40s and '50s—and that's the kind of clothes the designers are making. I don't like the midi, maxi or hot pants. If the designers have to invent something new, why can't it be new? These clothes now are of the past." Most designers, apparently, have run out of new things to do and are watching old movies for fashion ideas. But if you have some designs in mind, Brenda, send them along.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?—Do you remember the rock team of Jan and Dean whose big hit singles were "Baby Talk" and "Little Old Lady from Pasadena"? Have you been wondering where they are now? Good, because we're going to tell you. Jan Berry is now a chief waiter at a restaurant in California. We haven't been able to locate Dean Torrence, though. Dean, if you're out there, let us know what you're up to.

GUITAR KINGS NAMED—Guitar Player Magazine, which calls itself the "magazine for professional and amateur guitarists," has just announced the winners in its second annual guitar players' poll. Winner in the rock category was Eric Clapton, with the late Jimi Hendrix and George Harrison not far behind. Best folk guitarist, according to Guitar Player readers, was Paul Simon, of Simon and Garfunkel. Second and third in this category are Bob Dylan and Richie Havens.

MORE McCARTNEY—Word is out that Paul McCartney's second solo album is now in the final process of being put together. It was recorded with tight security precautions, but engineers working on the sessions say that some of the tunes are heavily orchestrated and some good sidemen are used. Paul decided not to go it alone this time, it seems.

COLLEGE-BOUND NEWS—Many students start college with a vague idea of what they want to do when they "get out" without having any real experience in the field they want to go into. Beloit College in Beloit, Wis., has a new program for kids who'd rather test out their dreams before putting four years of study into them. Under the plan, called Option II, students can enroll in the college, then work in the field of their choice for one year before taking any courses. The college holds a five-day seminar for newly enrolled students to show them around campus and tell them about campus research facilities that they can use. Then it sets the students free in the "real world" for a year. College counselors give advice, but they don't place students, so you have to find your own job. The program sounds like a good idea to us and if you're interested, write or call the Office of Admissions at Beloit College, Beloit, Wis. 53511; (608) 365-3391.

SO YOU WANT TO BE

By ERNIE HOOD

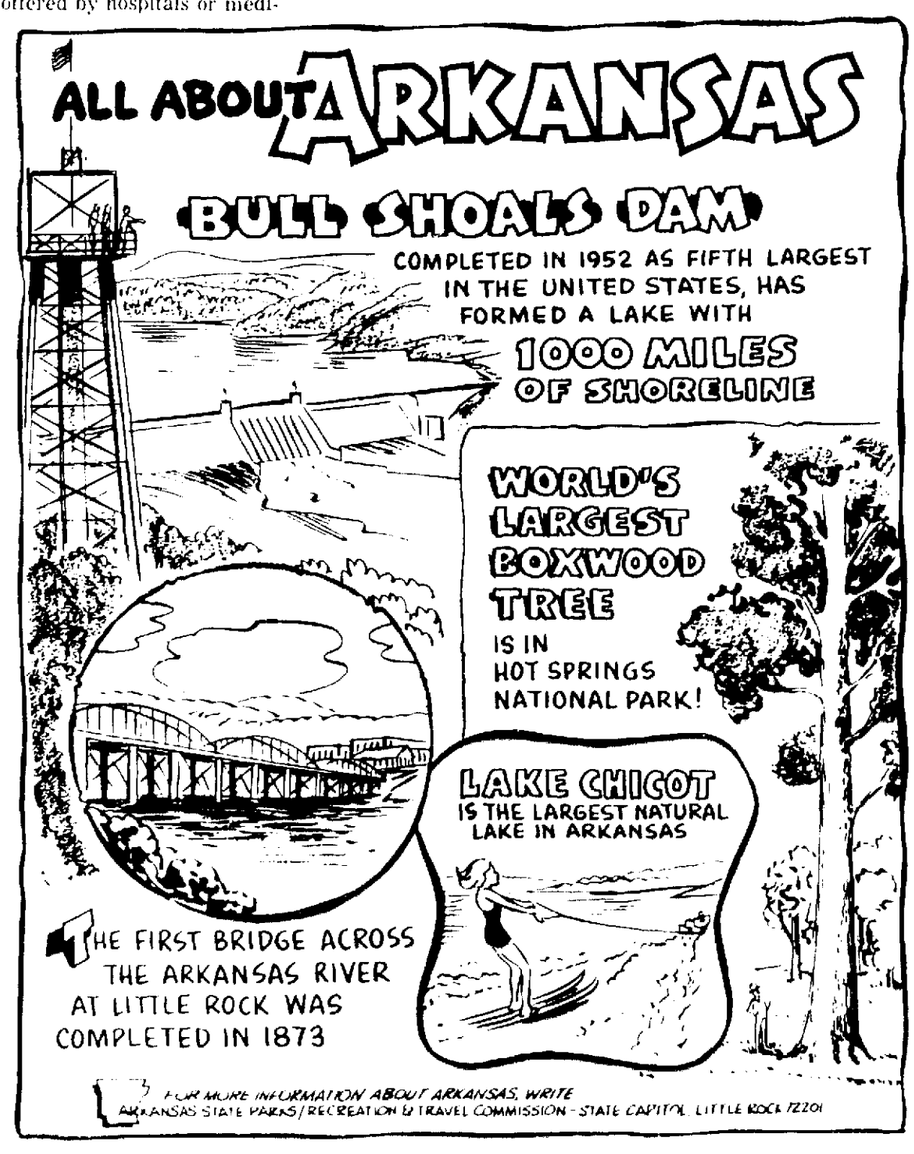

Laurilee H., Monmouth, Ore., writes: "I recently took a vocational interest test and scored high in radiological technology, but I don't know anything about it. What about training, job outlook and salaries?"

Dear Laurilee: Radiologic technologists, as experts in use of X-ray equipment, usually work under the direction of physicians who are radiologists. Training usually involves one- to four-year X-ray technology programs offered by hospitals or medical schools affiliated with hospitals.

Some junior colleges coordinate academic training with work experience in hospitals. In 1968, more than 1,100 schools of X-ray technonolgy were approved by the American Medical Association. All require that applicants be high school graduates, and a few require one or two years of college or graduation from nursing school.

Registration with the American Registery of Radiologic Technologists is an asset in obtaining highly skilled positions which offer better pay. Salaries during 1968 ranged from $105 to $130 a week in hospitals.

The job forecast for both full-time and part-time radiolgioc technlogists is very favorable, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, as medical techniques, equipment and knowledge become more advanced, and more employers, insurance companies and others require that workers and clients receive complete physical examinations which include X-rays.

San Diego Padres

National League—West

Nate Colbert

Ollie Brown

PROSPECTUS: If nothing else, Padres can hit the ball long distances. Last season, for example, only two other teams in the National League hit more home runs —the Reds (191) and the Cubs (179). The Padres hit 172. But for all the diamonds in the rough who poke homers, the team as a whole hasn't progressed very far from the expansion stage. Homers or no, The Padres are going nowhere.

PITCHING—Clay Kirby had an unusual distinction last season—he was taken out of a game while he had a no hitter going. Naturally, the Padres lost the game. He was a bright spot in a dismal pitching picture. No pitcher had a winning record last year. Pat Dobson was 13-15. Kirby was 10-16, Danny Coombs 10-14. Dobson has been traded, and into the picture steps Tom Phoebus, 5-5 as an Oriole in 1970. Fred Beene and Al Severinsen also bring help, presumably, from Baltimore. Rating: D

CATCHING—Chris Cannizzaro, an original Met, hit .279 last season, which shows how far he has come from the Polo Grounds. Bob Barton is his backup. Rating: C

INFIELD—Nate Colbert, at first, led club in homers with 38. Dave Campbell and Ed Spiezio, each of whom hit a dozen homers, stay at second and third, respectively. Shortstop is wide open. Top candidate: Francisco Libran, a rookie. Rating: C

OUTFIELD—Clarence Gaston had 29 homers, Ollie Brown 23. They will remain two thirds of outfield, Gaston in center and Brown in right. Left field could go to either Al Ferrara (15 homers), Ivan Murrell (12) or Rod Gaspar, acquired from Mets. Rating: B

ROOKIES TO WATCH—Catcher Fred Kendall, 22, another in the Bench Munson Fosse line of young belts; infielders Tommy Dean, Rafael Robles, Jose Arcia and Enzo Hernandez will get chances at shortstop, if Libran fails.

Predicted Finish: 6th in West

Foxy Freddy Is Back on Tracks

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — They called him "Foxy Freddy" and the "Golden Boy" when he was king of the big stock car race tracks a few years ago.

Fred Lorenzen, a master strategist when he was rolling to victory in 26 big speedway events and amassing a fortune of more than $400,000, is back again. He will start the $83,000 Carolina 500 stock car race in a familiar role—in the front row pole position.

The 34-year-old bushy-haired blond from Elmhurst, Ill., drove his red No. 99 Plymouth at a lap speed of 133.892 miles per hour Thursday to edge famed Richard Petty for the right to lead a 40-car field under the green flag at 12 noon Sunday.

Petty's speed of 133.384 m.p.h. was barely an eyelash slower.

Fifteen drivers earned starting spots in Sunday's field during the first round of time trials. A like number were to be filled today, with LeRoy Yarbrough's Mercury the prime choice for one of them.

His car arrived too late to get into the initial qualifying lineup.

It was the first pole victory for Lorenzen since he came out of retirement at midseason last year, having cured the ulcer problem that caused him to quit.

Bobby Isaac, the defending Grand National Champion, and Dave Marcis, a midwestern import from Wausau, Wis., got the two second row berths in Dodges. Bobby Allison, a former winner here, and Pete Hamilton make up the third row in a Dodge and a Plymouth, respectively.

For the scripture says, "You shall not muzzle an ox when it is treading out the grain," and, "The laborer deserves his wages."—I Timothy 5:18.

Ouachita Tigerettes Lead Nation in Basketball

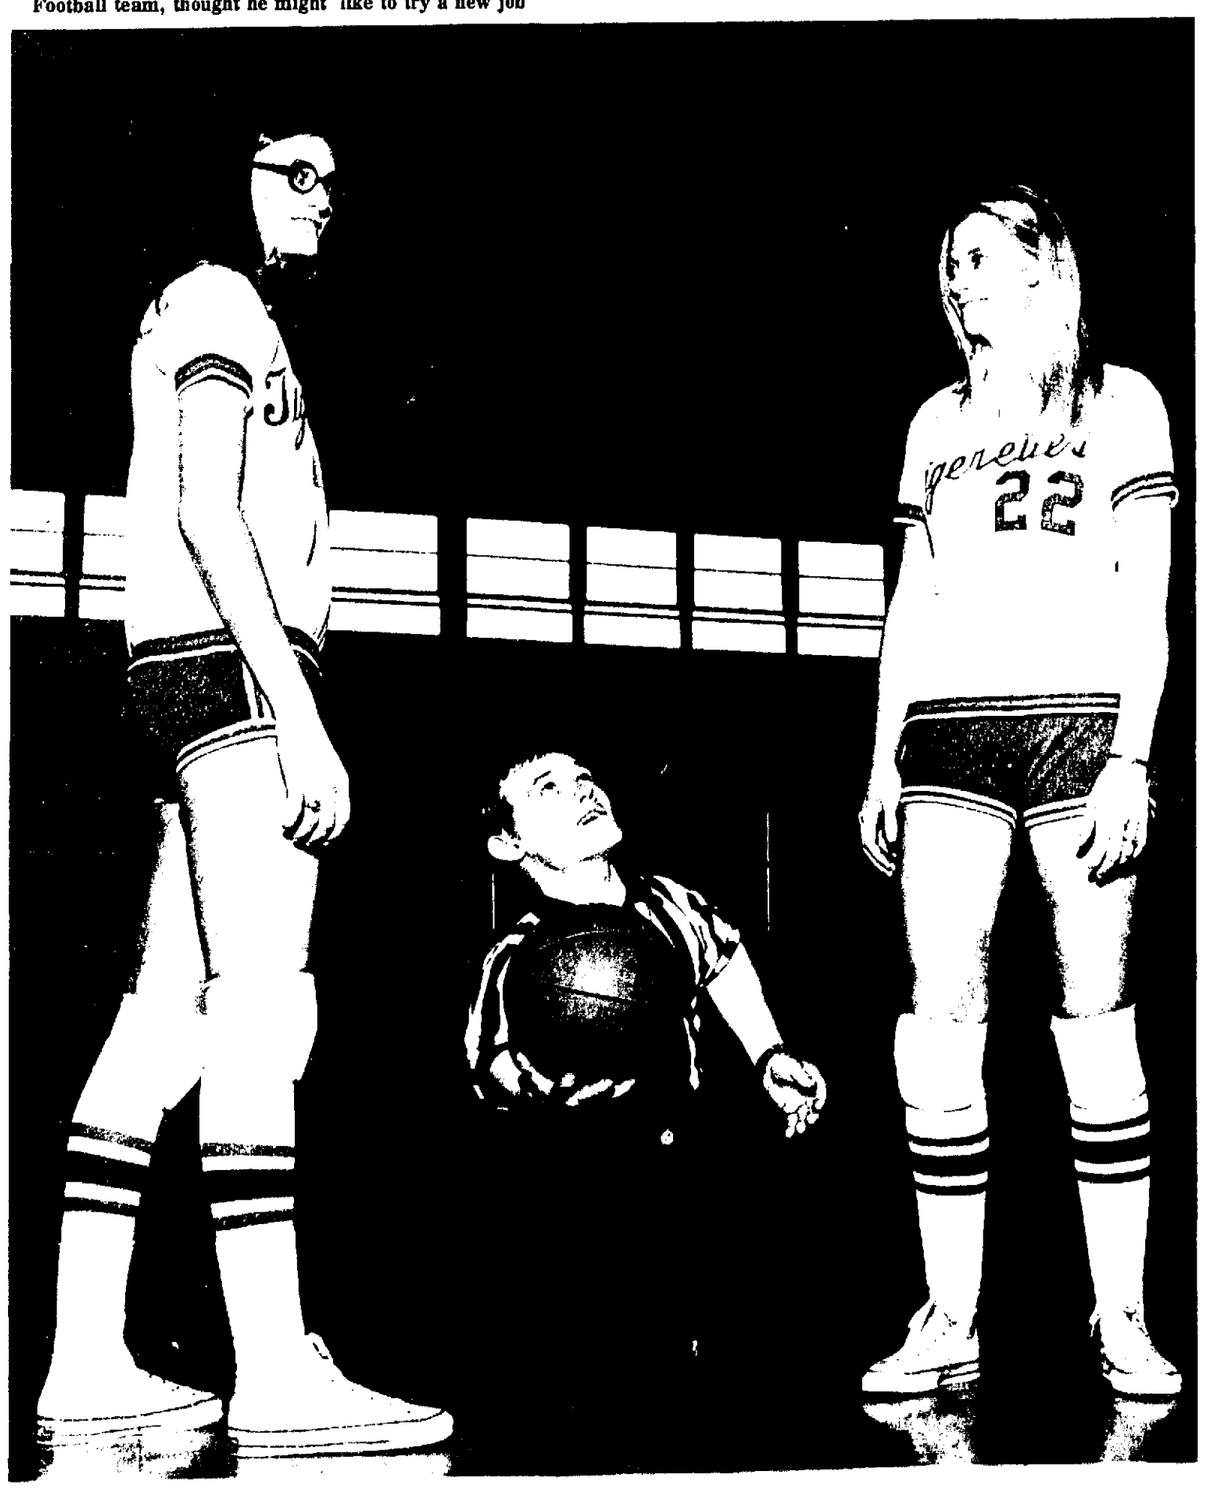

The outstanding group of girls pictured above comprise the number 2 college girl's team in the nation from Ouachita Baptist University at Arkadelphia. They have a record of 19 wins and 2 losses for the season.

The team has two All American players, Carol Bollinger and Lin Gamble, as well as the tallest girl on a College team in America, 6'11½" Freshman Gwen Bachman from Colorado. Also helping tremendously in the heighth department are Margene Stach and Glenda Knott both 6'3". (Shown on either side of Gwen Bachman in center of picture.)

The bottom photo shows Roscoe Stidman popular Student Manager of Ouachita Baptist University's Tiger Football team, thought he might like to try a new job during basketball season—like officiating a girl's game. Right away he came upon the "tall" problem of whooping the ball up to basketball stars Glenda Knott and Margene Stack, both 6'3". Roscoe who is only 33 inches tall thinks his job with the football team just might be easier!

NEA 1971 ALL-AMERICAN TEAM

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Austin Carr and Sidney Wicks were the only unanimous choices on the Newspaper Enterprise Association (NEA) 1971 College All-American team, as selected by the 17 head coaches in the National Basketball Association.

Carr of Notre Dame and Wicks of the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA) led the first team which also includes Artis Gilmore of Jacksonville, Jim McDaniels of Western Kentucky and John Roche of South Carolina. Gilmore had 13 first-team votes, McDaniels 10 and Roche nine.

Roche edged Ken Durrett of LaSalle for the first team. Durrett had eight votes. The seven other players who received mention from the pro coaches were: Dean Meminger, Marquette (three votes); Elmore Smith, Kentucky State (2), and Howard Porter, Villanova (2). Receiving one vote each were Johnny Neumann, Mississippi; Paul Westphal, Southern California; Stan Love, Oregon, and Ted McClain, Tennessee State.

The coaches did not choose on the basis of which college players would necessarily make outstanding pros, but they chose the players who were simply the finest college players in the land at this particular time.

Two 7-footers were on the first team, Gilmore (7-2) and McDaniels (7-0). Smith (7-0) was on the second squad.

Roche is the smallest player on the first team, at 6-2. Carr is next at 6-3. Wicks stands 6-8. Wicks, according to his coach, John Wooden, "moves better than anyone I've ever seen at his size. He's also the most consistent player I've ever coached." And that includes Lew Alcindor.

Carr has received raves from other pros, like Jerry West and Red Auerbach, who have both said that, in their opinions, Carr is the finest college player this season.

Carr, who has been averaging around 37 points per game this season, may become the second highest career point-average scorer in college history. Oscar Robertson's 33.8 three-year average has been second to Pete Maravich's 44.2. Carr, in early March, had a better than 34 points per game average over his three-year career.

Interestingly, no one section of the country dominated the first team. Wicks' hometown, for example, is Los Angeles, while Roche is from New York City and Carr is from Washington, D.C. McDaniels is from Scottsville, Ky., and Gilmore is from Chipley, Fla.

The entire first team is composed of seniors. The only sophomore is Neumann, averaging more than 40 points a game and trying to make memories of Pistol Pete fade from the hearts of Southerners. Smith and Westphal are the only juniors who received votes.

Professional Issue Before Olympic Group

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Avery Brundage, 83-year-old president of the International Olympic Committee, today prepared to face one of the most vital votes in his 18 years of office—probably the last big one before he retires.

Do 10 of the world's top Alpine skiers get thrown out of the Sapporo, Japan, Winter Olympic Games Feb. 2-13 next year because of alleged professionalism? That's the problem.

"Yes," says Brundage.

"No," says Marc Hodler, president of the International Ski Federation.

All 75 members of the IOC Congress have been asked to vote on the issue.

The IOC Executive Board, nine-man supreme authority of the committee, meets Saturday and Sunday to count the votes and come to a decision.

Original salary of the president of the United States was $5,000; the salary of the vice president was $5,000.
